Although no formal action was taken, there was some discussion over the report of the Executive Committee in regard to the position of the roads which have not yet signed the agreement of the reorganized Western Passenger Association. Only one, the Canadian Pacific, has positively refused to become a member, while four roads, the Denver and Rio Grande, the Rio Grande Western, the Great Northern and Northern Pacific, have signed conditionel agreements. Although the conditions attached to the agreement of the northern roads were not given out, there is a well-grounded suspicion for the belief that the refusal of the Canadian Pacific road to join the Western Passenger Association may result in a like action by the Northern Pacific and the Great Northern, which would prevent a strict maintenance of rates and might lead to more Serious consequences.

TERRIBLE SCENES OF FRENZY.

The Flimsy Structure Crowded with Wealth and Fashion—Notable Women Presided at the Booths. Trampled Upon by Madmen.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS WIRE.] PARIS, May 4.—[By Atlantic Cable.]

-Fire broke out at 4 o'clock in a crowded charitable bazaar in the Rue Jean Goujon at which Duchesse d'Uzes and other well known patronesses were present. Many people were burned to death. There was a terrible panic during which a number of people were injured. Thirty bodies have been recovered and thirty-five injured people are being cared for by physicians. Many are reported missing.

The building in which the fire broke out was a temporary structure of wood. The flames were first discovered above a stall occupied by the Duchess d'Uzes while the place was densely crowded. The bazaar is an annual functionfl presided over by the leaders of Parisian society. There was a wild rush for exits, and weaker persons were borne down and trampled upon. The inflammable nature of the building and contents caused the flames to spread with great rapidity, and in a short time the bazaar was a mass of flames. The bodies of thiry victims of the conflagration, mostly women, were recovered and laid out on the sidewalk, where the corpses formed a ghastly spectacle. Many people are still missing, and it is feared they are buried in

LATER:-The number of injured is greater than at first estimated. Over a hundred persons have been conveyed to the Hotel du Palais in the Cour de la Reine, but many critical cases have been transported to the Hospital Beaugon. A policeman on duty at the doors of the bazaar says that from fifteen hundred to eighteen hundred people were in the building when the fire broke doors, which were soon choked with people, thus preventing the escape of many who might otherwise have been saved. The strong trampled upon the weak and the young crushed the old to the floor. Heart-rending cries arose soon followed by shricks of agony as the flames swept upon the crowd strug-

The managers of the bazaar had arranged the stalls so as to represent a street of old Paris, and it was opened yesterday. The proceeds of the sales at each stall were devoted to a separate charity. Stalls were presided over by Mme. Feyrier, the wife of Gen. Fevrier; the Marquise de l'Aigle, Mme. Jacobs Baronne de la Lucette, the Marquit de St. Michael, the Duchess d'Uze, Mme. Mignotte, the Baronne St. Eidier, the Comtesse de Zalyanska, the Marquise de le Goustier, the Marquise di Argence, the Marquise de Pitti, the Duchess d'Alencon, a member of the Orleans family; Mme. d'Arlu, Mme. Boisseaux, the Barronne de Ccickler, Mme. Moreau, Marquise Costa de Bureaugard, Her Royal High-ness, the Duchess de Vendome, the Marquise de Maison and the Comtesse de Grefful, née La Rochefoucauld. Mile de Flores presided over the refreshments stands. These ladies were assisted by many equally well known society ladies. It is impossible as yet to identify the victims.

At 6:30 o'clock the bazaar is a heap of smoking cinders and ashes. Ambulances are conveying the bodies to the Palace de l'Industrie. The bazaar was 300x80 feet, and was constructed almost entirely of wood.

Enormous crowds of people are gathered around the scene of the fire at 7:30 o'clock. Among them are a large number of liveried servants inquiring for their mistresses, and the indica-tions are that among the dead are a number of the French aristocracy. Twenty corpses and a number of the most seriously injured are now in the Palace de l'Industrie. Admiral Bes-nard, the Minister of Marine, arrived on the scene shortly after 7 o'clock. Further details just obtained show that before the firemen could arrive the roof of the baziar crushed in, burying numbers of those who had been unable to make their egress from he building. Very soon after the alarm was given assistance hurried to the burning ba-zaar, and effective help was rapidly assistance hurried to the burning bazaar, and effective help was rapidly organized by the firemen and policemen. Although a general alarm was sent out with reasonable promptness, the whole wooden structure was blazing before the firemen could approach. The roof and almost the whole building collapsed, falling upon the unfortunate people. Many of them are supposed to have previously succumbed to stiffing smoke.

In spite of the efforts of the firemen, some time elapsed before the charred bodies could be pulled from the smoke and burning mass of debris covering the spot which but a short time before had been the scene of so much gayety. The prefect, M. Lepine, was one of the first officials to reach the scene, and he directed the operations for the recovery of the bodies and distributed the injured among the various houses in the vicinity. In the meanwhile the pumps played on the burning ruins. As the work progressed and the inquiries became more numerous and pressing, it was seen that the death rate would be much higher than at first estimated.

"The place was crammed full of people, and the heat was stifling. Being very uncomfortable, my friends and I determined to leave, but somehow we could not make much headway through the throng toward the door. I stayed a little behind as I was offered a nosegay by a stall-holler, when so a sudden, the shout of fire was raised. Instantly all was comrotion.

"We tried to keep cool, but the rush from behind forced us forward and we weer separated. Then I tried to work my way back, but I was carried off my feet and carried backward and forward in the swaying crowd. I lost my hat, then my coat was torn off and then my waistcoat. "Immediately the full extent of the calamity dawned upon us all. The flames spread with startling rapidity throughout the whole building, which rumbled like a living furnace, but the uproar of the conflagration could not drown the greans and cries of the agonized crowd.

"Gradually I found myself pushed back against the wall of the building, and finally succeeded in scrambling through an opening made by those who were near me. Five seconds later I would have been a victim, for hardly had I struggled through the hole when I heard a dreadful crash as the blazing roof fell in. I cannot describe the struggle with followed. The firemen arrived at 6 o'clock, and a company of infantry followed to clear the ruins and search for corpses. The news spread like wildfire. All the Cabinet Ministers now in Paris went immediately to the scene. Hundreds of equipages streamed along the Champs Elysees, their occupants all anxious and with tear-stained faces inquiring for their relatives. There were many heart-rending scenes of grief. One lady rushed about frantically calling her daughter by name. Some one told her the girl was safe, and then she jumped, danced, screamed, then rushed to the

A third imagined in her frenzy that she recognized her daughter's dress, and hysterically called upon her husband to tell the police to prevent the child from going to the bazaar. "Fighting has been in progress here since 5 o'clock this morning. The mountains form a semi-circle of which Velestino is the center. The Greeks occupy a strong position on the hills in two wings. The Turks commenced the at-tack under cover of sustained artillery fire. The Greeks responded feebly. Our troops gradually gained ground. A battery was planted on our right, where the ground was not so steep, covering the advance. WASHINGTON, May 4 .- [Special Dispatch.] Senator Perkins said tonight, in regard to the Tariff Bill as reported

"Taking the whole bill, I think California is to be congratulated. The advance of the rate on citrus fruit is a great boon to the Southern part of the State, and the holding rate on Zante currants is a decided advantage. I shall make an effort on the floor to have the rate on raisins and nuts restored to the same point as placed in the Dingley Bill, and will also make an attempt to secure the House bill rate on quick-silver, which was cut in half. The drawback on tin is of a decided benefit to canners of fruit and salmon, and will put those industries on a better basas. As to the abrogation of the Hawailan treaty, I do not think it will stand. WASHINGTON, May 4.—The Tariff Bill was reported to the Senate today to the surprise of Senators and the public. When the Senate Finance Committee met today, the idea prevailed that the bill would be held in committee for two days, All the members of the committee were present. The Democrats examined the bill for nearly an hour, making running comments upon it. They announced that they were against the bill as a whole. They soon understood that Senator Jones of Nevada was going to vote with the Republicans and realized that there was no possibility of changing the bill. They had no desire to make any factious opposition, and when a motion was made by the Republicans to report the bill at once the vote was taken promptly.

All the Republicans, with Senator Jones of Nevada, voted for the motion, and all the Democrats voted against it, the vote standing 6 to 5. Later in the day Senator Aldrich announced that he would call the bill up Tuesday, May 18.

Several sections in the last part of the Dingley Bill which researched the present law are stricken out. The new bill is radically different from the Dingley bill, practically amounting to another measure. Many important schedules were rewritten entirely.

WASHINGTON, May 4.—SENATE.—
Senators Gorman of Maryland and Foraker of Ohio had a little-tilt in the Senate late today during the consideration-of the Sundry Civil Appropriation Bill. There was added interest in the controversy from the fact that Mr.
Foraker is a newcomer and this was his maiden effort. It occurred when
Mr. Foraker offered an amendment appropriating $400,000 for the Tennessee River. This gave Mr. Gorman a text for a servere criticism of reckless extravazance in appropriations. There was something of a stir when Mr. Foraker rose to reply to Mr. Gorman.
He began with a mild criticism of BY ASSOCIATED PRESS WIRE.

Mr. Gorman for attempting, as he said, to instruct Senators as to their duty to the country. The Ohio Senator then spoke of the policy of the Republican party as to the tariff and maintained that the tariff policy of the Republicans was speaking for itself "more eloquently than any human tongue can speak." He assured the Senator from Maryland that the Republican administration would raise sufficient revenue to meet the needs of the government without resorting to bond issues, and at the same time he would guarantee that there would be no unnecessary or extravagant expenditures. guarantee that there would be no unnecessary or extravagant expenditures.

Mr. Gorman replied in a jocular vein, and spoke of Mr. Foraker as "one of the great host from Ohio," and expressed surprise "that the Senator from the State sending us a President should be the first to urge an increase of half a million dollars in the appropriations."

Upon Mr. Allison's objection, Mr. Foraker finally withdrew his amendment. A final vote on the Free Homestead Bill was taken at 3 o'clock and the bill passed by 42 to 11. The negative vote was: Senators Chilton, Clay, Gorman, Hawley, Kenney, Mills, Murphy, Platt of Connecticut, Smith, Vest and Walthall.

WASHINGTON, May 4.—The effect of WASHINGTON, May 4.—The effect of the action of the Finance-Committee of the Senate in throwing out the House provision in reference to the Hawaiian reciprocity treaty has been the subject of some comment. One member of this committee says it is the intention of the committee to deal with the matter hereafter. The effct of the bill, as it stands, he says, no doubt will be to impose a duty on Hawaiian sugar. Some amendment to regulate this will be prepared, but just what form it will take has not been determined.

SAN FRANCISCO, May 4.—The cellar

SAN FRANCISCO, May 4.—The cellar of a house inhabited by human beings is a strange place for wild beasts to make their home, yet this has happened far back in the hills near Sunol. Alameda county, where Antonio Nuñez, a farmer, lives with his family.

Antonio is thrifty and industrious and has prospered. Two weeks ago he moved from his old home into another house that had not yet been occupied.

For several days after Antonio and his nily moved into their new home, they family moved into their new home, they heard strange sounds coming apparently from the cellar. Antonio was busy with his farm work and those at the house were engaged in setting things to rights, so no effort was made to ascertain the cause of the sounds. But when day after day passed and the noise from the cellar did not cease, Nuñez determined to make an investigation.

Though courageous, Antonio is discrete, and he called in a few friends to his assistance. Armed with shotguns they made their way into the cellar. They had hardly reached the side of his assistance. Armed with sandguing they made their way into the cellar. They had hardly reached the side of the stone-walled place when from the space beneath the stairway bounded a splendid specimen of a California lioness. Before a shot could be fired the animal escaped through the open door.

A second later and the lion, a big, ugly beast, made a jump for the stairway. But this time Antonio was ready and killed the animal at the first fire. While his friend stood guard at the doorway Antonio made a search underneath the stairway and found four cubs. They were as comfortable as kittens, having an old coat and a quilt for a bed.

Nufiez took the biting and scratching cubs upstairs and for the rest of the day and far into the night waited for the lioness to return, but the brute did not come back. Nufiez is going to try to raise the cubs. The dead ilon measured six feet from tip to tip.

Instructor Ousterhout of Berkele; Planning a Garden Clock.
[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS WIRE.]

BERKELEY, May 4.—A clock garden whose flowers will tell the time of day is being planned by Instructor H. A. Ousterhout of the botanical department of the university. He proposes to cultivate such a garden on the university grounds, arranging the plants in dial form. The hours and half hours are to be indicated daily by the successive opening and closing of buds.

The work of producing a clock garden at Berkeley will be a long task, as it has never been attempted in California before, and a great deal of experimenting will be necessary to find fornia before, and a great deal of ex-perimenting will be necessary to find out just what flowers should be placed around the circle to indicate time. The garden will be the only one of the kind in the United States.

"By getting the right varieties of flowers we can mark all of the hours and some of the half hours throughout the day," said Mr. Ousterhout in de-scribing the projected botanical curios-ity. "The flowers will be arranged like a clock; and in the early morning they ity. "The first garden of the kind ever made was at Upsala, Sweden, by the Botanist Linnaeus. There is also one in Paris and efforts have been made to cultivate them in the Eastern States, but owing to the elements they have not been very successful. I think the California climate is suitable for such an experiment. The question that rean experiment. United States, with headquarters at Philadelphia, made his appearance in this city and attempted to interest a number of the most prominent Hebrews in a scheme to colonize government lands in this State. For obvious reasons, those to whom Delnard appealed for assistance discouraged his efforis and he returned East.

Nothing more was heard of the scheme until a few days ago, when letters of inquiry began to pour fin upon Rabbi Voorsanger and others from Hebrews in Philadelphia. As these advices stated that forty Jewish families were on the eve of departure for California and asked what provision had been made for them, Dr. Voorsanger made an investigation, with the result that he was uable to discover that any lands had been taken up by the society referred to or any other provisions made for the would-be colonists. He is emphatically of the opinion that the step proposed by the Philadelphians will result disastrously, and has telegraphed to his correspondents to that effect, and advised them to deter the will result disastrously, and has telegraphed to his correspondents to that effect, and advised them to deter the colonists from disposing of their property until something more definite is known of their plans.

SACRAMENTO, May 3.—Rev. W. S. Hoskinson, pastor of the English Luthran Church, called at the Coroner's office this afternoon to ascertain if there were any new particulars about the death of Christopher Strothman, whose lifeless body was found yesterday morning hanging from a rafter in a shed on his ranch near Freeport. The minister said he knew Strothman, and as he was apparently of such a cheerful disposition he could scarcely believe he had taken his own life. Delieve he had taken his own life.
Deputy Coroner Craig, who held an inquest upon the remains, made a thorough search of the premises to see if there were any signs whatever of foul play, but he could find none. All the indications point to the fact that Strothman's suicide was a deliberate one. The estate is estimated to be worth $75,000.

FORESTERS' GRAND COURT.

Festivities Begin at Marysville

with a Shower of Rockets.

MARYSVILLE, May 4.—A lasting interest will attach to the present session of the Grand Court of Foresters, for the reason that there are a number of important fraternar matters to be discussed and definitely acted upon; also that a number of more prominent offices are to be contested, and, last, but not least, because the people of Marysville have exerted themselves in assisting the local court to manifest a spirit of hospitality which has always been something of a boast in the historic old town.

The festivities began last night with a shower of rockets, a Japanese illumination and the band. Over one hundred and fifty delegates from the South were welcomed and domiciled. This morning many of the visitors were driven over the country. The business of the day was very speedily transacted. Shortly after 10 o'clock the

At 1 o'clock there was a parade which comprised the local and grand courts, the Knights of Sherwood Forest of Grass Valley, and appropriate floats, and a large delegation of citizens. After the parade, which terminated in Cortez Square, the keys of the city were formally presented to the grand court officers, and music and song was followed by speechmaking. In the evening the streets were illuminated, and later an entertainment was presented at the theater.

The most active work is being done by the representatives of the towns seeking the next grand court. Those from San Luis Obispo, Haywards and Healdsburg are not leaving anything undone to convince the delegates of the justness of their respective claims. Not a few of the delegates say that it is likely that all will be disappointed, as it is highly probable that a pending constitutional amendment will be adopted making biennial sessions. Then, too, the contingent in favor of permanent location in San Francisco is large. There is talk of a change of the grand secretary's office, but it is generally conceded that the present officer will hold, but that the grand court will reserve the authority to designate assistants. Concerts and an illuminated bicycle parade will take place tomorrow.

The Judge sustained the demurrer of the defendant to the second amended complaint without leave to amend. This action wipes this case off the calendar.

Police Called to Keep Them Out. New Constitution Sprung by th New York Faction—The Courts Appealed To.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS WIRE.] KANSAS CITY, May 4.—The police department was called upon to hold the door of today's convention of the Americal League of Musicians, against the delegates who were sent by unions of the league, the charters of which were revoked on account of their affiliation with the American Federation of Labor.

The conflict between the musicians of the United States assembled today in Kansas City is a bewildering affair. One faction (the New York faction) kept the other, or union labor faction, out of the convention, called for pub-lic protection, and then proceeded to adopt a new constitution to forever bar them out. The union labor faction will probably organize another convention, claiming to be the only genuine American League of Musicians, and appeals to the courts may ensue. After two hours of excitement, the convention of the American League of Musicians was called to order by President Bremer, who is also president of convention of the American League of Musicians was called to order by President Bremer, who is also president of the Musicial Mutual Protective Union of New York. The delegates of the Federation of Musicians presented themselves for admission, but only those who were members of the committee on credentials were let in.

I. J. Masten of Cleveland, first vice-president of the federation, and delegate from Cleveland in the League, pushed forward, followed by the crowd. Sergeant-at-arms Bennett was brushed aside. Anti-federation men rushed into the breach, and by main strength shut the door. The federation men gathered in groups and declared themselves. "We propose to go in," they said. Soon thereafter some of the federation men, Mr. Currier of Chicago, President Miller, Secretary Schmalz, Harry Asmus of Buffalo, Messrs. Hahn and Drach of Chicago, set out for the courthouse to secure an injunction. They went to see attorneys but they found that an injunction or restraining order could not be obtained. They returned dusty and angry to find that the committee on Credentials meanwhile made a report seating the delegates from those unions which had not affiliated with the American Federation of Labor. John A. Hibberd of Pittsburgh was elected secretary, on account National Secretary Beck's union, No. 2, of Philadelphia, having been expelled.

It developed right away that C. H. William Ruhe of Pittsburgh and President Bremer of New York were the leaders against the labor affiliation element. They laid before the convention a new constitution which in express terms prohibits any affiliation with any other organization, enacts that its own provisions shall not be altered and confines membership to professional instrumental musicians. Mr. Meyer of Omahamade repeated fiery speeches opposing consideration of this new constitution until the suspended unions had been heard from.

Points of order, outside arguments and appeals from the chair came thick and fast until a recess was taken. The new constitution, if adopted, would wipe out the contention of the federation men. It is evident that this new constitution will be adopted. At the afternoon session a new constitution, on the lines of the one proposed by Messrs. Ruhe and Bremer, was adopted by a decisive vote.

PREPOSTEROUS CLAIM Germany Impresses an America

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS WIRE.]

NEW YORK, May 4.—A dispatch to NEW YORK, May 4.—A dispatch to the Herald from Washington says the latest citizenship question which has risen between this government and Germany has resulted in the issuing of instructions by the State Department to Ambassador Uhi to make a demand for the release of an American citizen named Mayer, who, the officials consider, has been wrongfully impressed into the military service of the German government.

into the military service of the German government.

A new and important issue has been raised in this case. Mayer was born in this country of a German subject, the latter, although living here for some years, failing to take out naturalization papers. When the child was 11 or 12 years of age, his parents returned to their native land. Mayer attended German schools, and when he reached the age of 21 he was informed that he must enter the German army. He refused to Investigation showed that Mayer really had a claim on this government. The department states in its instructions to the Ambassador that persons born on American soil are Americans, and as such are entitled to the protection of this government.

When the matter was first brought to the attention of the German authorities they denied the right of the United States to interfere, holding that as Mayer was born of a German subject he was a German citizen. The authorities found that in another case of military imprisonment which was considered some years ago Germany admitted practically the contention now raised. The authorities are confident the demand of this government will be compiled with.

Alfonso's Troops Capture Naic and Cubans Lose Two Hundred Men. Great Misery in the Island.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS WIRE.] NEW YORK, May 4.—A dispatch to the Journal from Havana says the Cuban troops led by Gen. Jesus Robi, recently defeated the Spanish column of Gen. Rey. The Spaniards numbered 1300, or over twice as many as the insurgents who kere pitted against them. Rey's rout was no complete that he has been removed from his command by Weyler, and will be sent to Spain to answer charges of cowardice before the military tribunal.

Robi was encamped near Bayam when his scouts brought news of the withdrawal of the regular Spanish troops from that city and the abandonment of the place to the local vol-unteers. Gen. Calixto Garcia, commanding the Department of the East, sent one of his dynamite guns with the best-trained crew under his com-mand with instructions to Robi to fall upon the city forthwith. Robi had little difficulty in taknig the city. The volunteers offered slight resistance, not volunteers offered slight resistance, not holding out long enough to warrant the bringing of the dynamite gun into play. The insurgents sacked the government commissary, liberated Cubans in the prisons and supplied themselves with all the arms and ammunition that the garrison contained. They nalled the Cuban colors to the flagstaff on the City Hall and were about to evacuate the city and bear off the plunder when Rey's forces came in sight.

The slaughter of the Spanish troops by the dynamite gun was terrible. The insurgents were practically unscathed, the enemy having scarcely a chance to fire on them. Garcia decided not to hold Bayamo, having need of the men for important work.

STARVATION AND MISERY.

In the course of a long, confidential report from Matanzas, United States Consul Alexander C. Bryce said: "Over seven thousand persons have been concentrated at this place, three-quarters of whom are entirely without means of support. Women and children are dying on the streets from starvation. Death and misery walk hand in hand. Among these people are several Americans. Yellow fever, smallpox, and other diseases are prevalent. All this is the result of Gen. Weyler's inhuman policy. Aid for these sufferers should promptly come from the United States."

Other reports of a similar character have been received from the regularlyaccredited agents of the United States and have been placed before President McKinley.

While the strikers are asking for an increase in the wage scale, that is not the chief reason for the strike. It is alleged that certain firms in the Empioyers' Association have been employing non-union men. Five important industries are affected by the various strike movements now going on, and there is serious trouble in the ranks of the labor organizations. Some of the buildings affected by the strike of the marble polishers and helpers and steamfilters' helpers are the Astor Court, Astoria Hotel, New York Athletic Club, Bancroft building, Townsend building, Queen's Life Insurance building and Woodbridge building.

It is not thought there will be any strikes of carpenters on account of their refusal to handle any out-of-town non-union-made materials. The contractors will probably accede to the de-although not unscathed. Miss Bushbeck said:

"I was a saleswoman at booth No. 15, near the place where the fire originated. I arrived at ten minutes past 4 with my friends. We stopped to look around the bazaar, and stopped at a lottery wheel, where I won a bunch of asparagus. Just then, happening to turn around, I saw and called my friends' attention to a flicker in the corner of the wall, about fifteen yards away. Hardly had I done so when a gentleman behind me cried:

"Fire, ladies, hasten out,' and hustled me toward the door rather roughly, but fortunately for me. As this was my second experience under such circumstances, I advised my two friends to raise their skirts in front, so they would not stumble over them. We were then just stepping on the first of the three steps leading out of the building.

"Turning my head to look back, I saw the whole place in flames. At my I feft I caught a glimpse of an old lady emerging from an adjacent door, and saw her stumble on her skirts. The next instant quite twenty persons piled on top of her. I crossed the street and turned around to face the fire, but already the heat was so intense that it scorched me, and I was obliged to raise my hands to protect my face.

"When the roof fell in with a terrible crash, certainly not more than five minutes had elapsed from the first warning. Such was the intensity of the heat that I saw a fireman's jacket ignited and several of the horses were saved. All were burned in a moment. heat that I saw a fireman's jacket ignited and several of the horses were badly singed. Out of the pile of persons who fell near the door none were saved. All were burned in a moment. Of the four nuns at my booth, two were saved, and one of the three blind girls who were engaged there. The visitors were for the most part ladies gorgeously dressed."

The Duchess d'Alencon, sister of the Austrian Empress, is among the injured, the list of which includes the Duchess d'Lies, the Comtesse Savigny and Mile de la Boulaye.

In the streets adjacent to the bazaar were long lines of sumptuous equipages. Many of these returned, empty; their owners were dead. The others were seen moving off with occupants injured in head or limb, in many cases with faces streaming with blood. The search in the debris will continue all night. It appears that the fire originated on-the left side of the bazaar. The illuminating apparatus of the kinetematograph exploded and set fire to the Turkish curtains and hangings. In a few moments the flames spread along the whole side of the bazaar. The public threw themselves instinctively to the right of the building, which backed on the high wall of an adjoining edifice. The bazaar altogether had eight doors, three in front and one on the left side and the rear four, like French windows, which were especially reserved for employés. The crowd near the mafin entrances was able to escape, but those at the other end not knowing of the doors reserved for the employés found themselves hemmed in.

As the fire spread, the pressure on the right side, where there were no exits, kept steadily increasing. Here a number of victims were crushed to death. Happily the wall of the Hotel du Palais, against which the bazaar backed, furnished a barred window. Immediately on the alarm being given, the servants hurriedly broke the bars and were able to rescue a large number of persons.

the servants nurriegly broke the bars and were able to rescue a large number of persons.

Suddenly, above the roar of flames, were heard cries of terror and despairing appeals for help, from the cul-desac end where the unfortunates were being burned alive. The firemen threw hundreds of buckets of water on them from above, at the greatest risk to themselves. But their courageaus efforts were all in vain. The fire made furious headway. Cries of despair arose outside in the Avenue Montaigue, the Place Alma and the Rue Francois, adjacent streets. On all of these thoroughrares there was a veritable flight of people, mostly women without skirts, petticoats or hats, their feet naked and their clothing either burned off or torn off. Every available flacre was taken by assault. The whole of the highest society in Paris is in a horrible pellmell, a prey to the deepest despair, husbands seeking and calling for wives, and fathers seeking and calling for daughters. One young woman was seen rushing about in her petticoat, her dress hav-seeking and calling for daughters. One young woman was seen rushing about in her petitooat, her dress having been torn off to throw over a lady who was in flames. Her one anxiety was to find her parents and tell them of her safety.

Words would fall to describe the horror of the scene of the Palais de l'Industrie, where the bodies are exposed on the side next to the Avenue Banton, in a portion of the building now in course of demolition. Here, in a large room, rudely covered with rough planks and on sheets spread over planks, the bodies as they arrived from the ambulances are being placed in three long rows. Here is exemplified death by fire with all its horrors, bodies completely nude, limbs twisted in the writhings of agony, some still having ognition in spite of horrible disfigurement, bones visible through fire-eaten fiesh, some mere skeletons or grinning skulls blackened with smoke.

At 8:30 o'clock only six bodies have been recognized with certainty. These are Mme. Henriette Hannihadal, Baroness Elizabeth St. Martin, Viscountess Marie Bonneval. Sister Guinox, the superior of the Sisters of the Convent of St. Vincent de Paul: Mme. de Grancy and the Comtesse St. Derier. Other bodies supposed to be recognized are those of Baroness St. Didler, Mme. Laren Cooselin and Mme. Chevigny. As soon as President Faure heard of the disaster he sent the most pressing inquiries for full particulars to the Prefect of Police. All the theaters in Paris are closed tonight.

The wounded are now known to number at least 180. Mme. Flores, wife of the Spanish Consul, expired at the Hospital Beaujon, where are several others injured. M. Faure has visited the hospital and the Palais de l'Industrie to pay his respects to the dead.

Further identifications believed to be certain are the Comtesse Miramel, the Comtesse Broderville, M. Victor Cosse.

CAN IT BE ACCOMPLISHED?

Judging by the Past Two Days' Record There W .! be Some Time to Spare. The End is Saturday Night at 12 O'clock-Attend to it Today.

To dispose of this entire stock of pianos and organs now on sale by the end of this week, we shall have to sell an average of about nine pianos a day. Every instrument in this stock must be sold, and will be by that time, but even if any remain unsold by 12 o'clock Saturday night, be it one or a dozen, the wholesale-cost sale now in progress will end then, once and forever.

At that hour ends the fairest piano sale, the greatest opportunity that has ever been presented, or, in our candid opinion, ever will be presented to any living man now in the city of Los Angeles.

It costs just so much money in actual material and labor to build a first-class piano, and

The Steinway, the Kimball and the Weber.

Are such in every respect. First-class material and first-class mechanics' labor will not be lower than it has been for some years to come, not within this century at least, and fine pianos cannot be sold for less money hereafter than they have of late.

For reasons heretofore explained, we are perfectly satisfied to receive the wholesale cost out of these instruments, every one of which is absolutely brand new and perfect in every detail, and this means to you a saving of many, many dollars in the purchase of a piano; it means that our prices during this alteration sale are far below what any retail dealer could possibly afford to sell the same grade of pianos for; it to sell the same grade of pianos for; it means that our prices will be found an aver-age of $200 below the regular retail selling prices, and in some of the fancier styles even as much as $250.

Do you realize that a plano which regularly retails everywhere for $250 can be secured here today for $118, and the $300 styles for $142 and $156. All of the $375 styles are now being sold for $195, and the fanciest $450 instruments are going for $246 and $252. Furthermore, the $550 cabinet-grand upright planos, finer than which there is nothing to be bought anywhere in this city, are now for sale at $238 and $334.

Terms, $25 down and $10 a month, and organs at $10 down and $5 a month.

Make a Dash for Liberty.

A TARDY POSSE IN PURSUIT.

THE COUNTRY SCOURED FOR MILES FOR THE FUGITIVES.

Ill the Runaways Were Students is the Electrical Department and Are Considered to be Tough Customers.

Jim Budd's reform at Whittier bore its first fruit last night in the escape of seven of the toughest youths in the State school. They broke loose about 8 o'clock and had been gone long enough to get well on their way before it dawned upon any of the newly-ap-pointed guards and officers that any

The runaways had been detailed to work in the electrical and power de-partment under the direction of John Taylor, one of the two Democratic em-ployés appointed to fill the place for-merly occupied by Sherman Wiggins, and Fremont Behne. Behne was not electric appliances which centered in his bedroom, so that he could get his nisht's sleep in confidence that none of the boys in his department could get out without sounding an alarm in his ear. But his two successors had not fathomed the intricacles of all that apparatus. Wiggins left last Friday night and the new men have not yet thoroughly familiarized themselves with things. Before Wiggins had been gone two hours, the machinery got mixed up so that all the building and grounds went dark. This produced a panic among the occupants of the girls' school and also presently in the breasts of Superintendent Van Alstyne and his subordinantes at the boys' school. Sup-of Superintendent Van Alstyne and his subordinantes at the boys' school. Superintendent Van Alstyne hustled about every available man he had and himself helped to form a "tracha" about the institution that would have met with the approval of Gen Weyler himself. It did better service than any of Weyler's trachas, for it held in the boys, and reserved the fun until last night, when everything was going so smoothly that the guards all thought it was a good time to sit down together in the lea of the building and discussplans for electing the right kind of a Democratic successor to Gov. Budd. Meanwhile, the seven young men set out on their journey. When Taylor, who was in charge of the engine-room, finally discovered that his seven student assistants were missing, he did not suppose they had deserted him for quits, and did not immediately, make their absence known at the office. After looking about awhile, he was greatly chagrined to discover that his confidence and his lack of precaution had been rudely taken advantage of. Then he gave the alarm at the office. Superintendent Van Alstyne was a trifle bashful about confiding the fact to the general public and so did not order the customary whistle to be blown as a warning to the townspeople and farmers of the surrounding country to be on the lookout for the escaped inmates, and incidentally for the $10 reward which the State pays for their recapture. The superintendent, however, quickly summoned all his assistants, some fifty or so in number, and every one that could be spared was sent out on a cross-country run through the

The boys who escaped were regarded as desperate characters, and the newly-appointed officers felt a bit timid about running them down in cornfields, wil-running them down in cornfields, willows, swamps or sage brush gullies without being protected from the darkness of the night by pistols. But few if any of them had such implements, and so they must needs go up to the town and borrow or hire some for the occasion. By the time this was done the boys had been given time enough to walk to Los Angeles or to flank the Puente Hills to Pasadena.

All of the posse got off, however, before midnight, and at an early hour this morning Superintendent Van Alystyne was keeping vgil alone in his office, without even the consolation of a cigar which the State law prohibits.

STATESMAN BARLOW "OXCITED."

Information received from Wash ington, and from Statesman Barlow, directly and indirectly, gives the net results of an interview which Mr. Barow is alleged to have had with the Secretary of War relative to the status of the San Pedro Harbor matter. First and foremost, in one of the dispatches received, is set forth with considerable particularity the fact, or alleged fact, that although Mr. Barlow sent his name in to Secretary Alger, he was obliged to wait "about one hour" before he was granted an audience. Finally, it seems, Mr. Barlow sent word in to the Secretary; through one of his outer guards, that he would wait no longer, whereupon the distinguished war minister came to the outer door and asked Statesman Barlow what he wanted. Mr. Barlow thereupon rose up on end and announced that his mission was to ascertain "the attitude of the administration toward San Pedro.' He was informed, by the Secretary, so it is claimed in his talk to our Washington correspondent, that the President is "opposed to the appropriation on account of the scarcity of money; Dispatches from Washington bring that the appropriation was inadequate; the welcome information that the duty that Congress did not know what it on citrus fruits has finally been fixed was about when it made the appropriation; and that the Harbor Comin the Senate committee's report at 1 cent per pound, and that the new Tariff mission did not understand the ques-Bill, with the amendments proposed by tion; but that, notwithstanding 'all the committee, has been reported to this, specifications were being prepared the Senate. The "National Home-seekers' Association." with headquarters at No. 112 Dearborn street, Chicago, is sending out through its secretary, George E. Girling, a call for the "First National Home-seekers' Convention," to be held in Chicago for three days, beginning Monday, September 20, 1897. It is generally conceded that the concentration of population in the larger cities is detrimental to the common weal, and the declared object of the above-named association and of the proposed convention, is to aid in "turning the tide of immigration on to unused, unoccupied, fertile agricultural lands, be lieving that in this manner hundreds of thousands of people will become home-owners, independent and prosperous." The opinion is expressed that the safety of the republic is threatened by the concentration of population into the crowded centers, and representative citizens are invited to meet at the place and time above named to discuss this question, "especially with a view to advising those who are willing and able to assist themselves to obtain homes, and to take such other action as may be deemed advisable, tending toward bringing out of industrial deproductions of rural scenes in modern a criminal, even if it be proven in his pression and financial stagnation, universal peace, prosperity and progress.'

The announced objects of this under taking are certainly praiseworthy, and much good may be accomplished if the plans as set forth be carried out in good faith. But care must be taken lest a few demagogues get into the convention and spoil all. Demagogy of whatsoever kind must be relegated to the rear, and must be promptly sat down upon whenever it shows its ugly face. The problems presented should be approached with calm intelligence, not with passion or prejudice. If any real or permanent good is to be accomplished it must be through calm and intelligent discussion as a preliminary to action. The crowding of our surplus populations into the larger cities is indeed a great and growing evil. If the Home-seekers' Association can do ought to mitigate this evil. It will not have existed in vain. If it would make good beginning, let it incontinently "fire out" all professional statesmen, industrial sky-scrapers, walking delegates, communists, and other peculiar persons with wheels in

Not less than $1,000,000,000 either in gold or in commodities is drawn from this country every three years to pay foreign ship-owners for the transportation of our imports and exports. No portion of this vast sum is returned to us. It is practically a dead loss, with no compensating gain. And this loss is increasing from year to year. If nothing be done to check it, it will not be many years before a billion of dollars will be required every two years to pay these foreign ship-owners for their services. How long can we stand this drain? How long will it be before it will require a billion annually to pay this tribute to foreign nations? It needs hardly to be pointed out that this outflow enriches other nations at the expense of our own. theory that other nations will do this work cheaper than we can do it, and that herefore our own people should find other and more profitable employment, is sophistical and untenable. Some millions of our people are vainly seeking work, profitable or otherwise, and would gladly embrace the opportunity of employment in the construction and manning of American ships, f such opportunity were fairly offered. That the rehabilitation of the American merchant marine would give employment to many thousands of American workingmen is a proposition so self-evident that no argument is needed to sustain it. Our workingmen are in sore need of this employment, and the interests of the American people require that they should have it.

The imposition of a discriminating duty of 10 per cent, in favor of imports brought in American ships would solve the problem. It would be a return to first principles, under which, in the early days of this repub carrying trade made marvelous progress, and became the wonder of the world. It would be a return to a policy which has received the sanction and indorsement of such eminent states men as Washington and Jefferson and Hamilton and Madison, and other founders of this republic. It would infuse new life and energy into our industries on land and sea, and would admirably supplement the protective tariff which, it is hoped and expected, the present Congress will give us. The opportunity is within our grasp. We should not hesitate to take advantage of it. In restoring prosperity to our land industries, which have suffered prostration for some four years, we should not neglect to restore pros perity to our sea industries, which have suffered prostration for half a century. The remedy is at hand, and the time is opportunte for applying it. Shall we neglect this great opportunity and this obvious duty?

The growing probability of another English war against the sturdy Boers of South Africa is the chief cause of the slow-and-sure decadence of African mining shares in the London market. All the political conditions of that country are already against the English, and that is why shares have declined in the face of the extraordinary efforts of a subsidized press in London. And yet, without any flourish of trumpets or undue advertising on the part of California, the gold output of this State is rapidly working back to the twenty-million mark of 1862 again. This is the result of cheaper transportation, cheaper machinery and cheaper

The person who preferred charges of disloyal utter ances against him died in the asylum at Stellacoom shortly after the close of the war; and the same man's son now past 50, is said also to be an inmate of the same institution. Army officers generally believed Haller's re moval unjust.

Secretary Gage shows his plain good sense by the advocacy of a reduced whisky tax which will so reduce taxation as to close up "moonshine" discollect a larger proportion of the tax on spirits than is now being done. It will be remembered that it was only 90 cents under the McKinley Bill which yielded a much larger revenue than the Wilson tariff of $1.10. The opium tax of $10 was another blunder on the part of tariff tinkers, which led up to no end of smuggling between San Francisco and Canadian ports. The best tax is the one that everybody can afford to pay.

The chevalier's voice is full of those splen-didly-sweet notes which have charmed didly-sweet notes which have charmed the world's grandest audiences, and it was gratifying to note last evening that this great tenor is appreciated to the measure of his deserts. He sang a bit of Verdi's music for an introduction, and did it all so beautifully that he was compelled to respond with three other numbers, the last of which was a stanza of the familiar ballad, "Marguerite." [SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE OF THE TIMES.]

NEW YORK, April 29.-The new system of high-speed telegraphy developed by Prof. Crehore and Lieut. Squier, by which 3000 words a minute can be trans-mitted, bears many points of resem-blance to that which the name of P. B. Dolany has for some time been as-sociated. Both systems aim at doing by telegraphy a great part of the cor-respondence that is now done by mail. The effect of such a system on existing methods can be illustrated by a single example. For the business be-tween New York and Chicago, where about forty thousand letters are car-ried daily, it would require but two lines in continuous operation to handle the entire mail traffic. Now it takes three days to receive a business reply between New York and Chicago. This transmission by machine telegraphy could be accomplished easily the same day. It is thought that the effect of day. It is thought that the effect of such a service would be to increase business transactions to such an extent that the total volume of intelligence transmitted would be augmented; in other words, if a man could send a letter of, say 200 words, by telegraph for about the same price as a special-delivery letter would cost him, and be able to get his reply in a couple of hours, or less, a large bulk of important and urgent business correspondence would be passed over the telegraph wires instead of through the mails. But the telegraph companies are in no hurry to take up the system. They say they can handle all the business people want to do by telegraph now, and so they have no object in introducing any faster transmission. This view is not surprising when it is remembered that the capital stock and bonds of the companies are predicated on poles and wires, 90 per cent. of which would be useless if the new principles were introduced. It is understood that a rival organization is being formed for the exploitation of high-speed telegraphy. There is no difficulty in getting speed enough for every commercial requirement. Mr. Delany has already transmitted 8000 words a minute on an artificial line equal to 200 miles. At even one-eight such a service would be to increase bus.

words a minute on an artificial line equal to 200 miles. At even one-eighth of that speed, he estimates that two wires from New York to Chicago would Carry all that is now done by the Western Union, the Postal Union, the Bell Telephone and the United States Western Union, the Postal Union, the Bell Telephone and the United States mails. It is natural to suppose that the new system will be limited to trunkline business, and that most of the way traffic will continue to be done by the Morse system. In fact, the high-speed system would in all probability have the effect of increasing the present business of both the telegraph and the telephone companies. It has often been noted that the business of the telegraph companies has steadily grown since the advent of the telephone. Each of the three services will command a distinct patronage and there will be room for all. For the new system a line of very substantial character will be required. Even the best-constructed lines now in use are subject to almost hourly disturbances of one kind or another, and not infrequently a storm will render an entire system of wires absolutely useless. Where a line fails temporarily, the receiving operator's break at the other end informs the transmitting operator of the fact, and the unintelligible part is quickly rectitransmitting operator of the fact, and the unintelligible part is quickly recti fied. But a line disturbance lasting for only five seconds, say, on a line handling 3000 words a minute, would mean a "break" of 250 words, and, what is more serious, it would not be discovered until possibly thousands of words had been reeled off beyond it. ESSENTIALS OF SUCCESSFUL VE-

The failure of many of the verascope pictures of the Fitzsimmons-Corbett fight brings out two points in strong relief. The electric motor has become such a familiar device that its full usefulness is only realized when from any caused its operation is interrupted. The usual practice in the taking of verascope pictures is to feed the long strips of film to the camera by electric motors regulated to carry sufficient film past the lens for twenty-four pictures per second. On this occasion, a crank turned by a man was substituted for an electric motor, and consequently the film lacked regularpictures of the Fitzsummons-Corbet substituted for an electric motor, and consequently the film lacked regularity. There were serious defects in the spacing between the pictures, which will cause flashes of light to appear when the pictures are enlarged by the lantern for the screen. The standard spaces between pictures is 1-64 of an inch; the spacing of the Carson City pictures varies from 1-64 to %. As the pictures are enlarged 200 times the normal space of 3% inches is exaggerated in many instances to 2 feet 1 inch, i. e., from a scarcely observable interruption to a wide break in the continuity of the series. The reels, too, had been freshly painted only the day before the encounter, and the pfaint was not dry when the film was put on them. The result is that the film was splashed with paint along its edges, and in parts across its face, so that many negatives had to be cut out, necessitating the cementing together of the film ends, and the loss of important details. Three cameras were used in series, but never simultaneously. The first few thousand feet uently the film lacked regula of important details. Three cameras were used in series, but never simultaneously. The first few thousand feet of film bears only pictures of the derby hat of a spectator within a penumbra of ringside incidents, and the sixth round is obscured in important parts by a fog of smoke from the cigars of the favored few inside the rails. All this goes to show that the most scientific apparatus may be made of no avail by the absence of judgment. In this case a fortune was lost for want of management and a little commonsense.

A NEW USE FOR X FAYS. Prof. Heycock concluded a recent lec ture on metallic alloys and the theo ture on metallic alloys and the theory of solution by the description of an experiment of exceptional interest, which may have an important bearing on future methods of determining the nature of various brands of steel and iron. Prof. Heycock first explained that when a salt such as potassium permanganate, is dissolved in water and the mixture is then slowly frozen, the salt separates from the ice and permanganate, is dissolved in water and the mixture is then slowly frozen, the salt separates from the ice and forms a core in the center of the vessel. He then drew attention to the fact that the composition of metallic alloys is, and always has been, a vexed question; that is to say, it has always been very doubtful whether the metals which compose the alloys form a homogeneous mixture, or whether they exist as small distinct particles which are capable of being separated from each other. Some metals, such as sodium, permit of the passage through them of Roentgen rays, while others, such as gold, prove to be quite opaque when submitted to the radiations from a Crookes tube. Prof. Heycock made an alloy of sodium and gold, containing a very small precentage of gold, and allowed it to cool very slowly, just as the solution of potassium permanganate in water had cooled. A very thin section of the alloy was then cut and radiographed. The radiograph revealed the fact that the sodium had crystallized out from the general mass. This is rezarded as analysis.

of the most interesting results which have been brought about by means of X rays, and it opens up a wide field of research in microscopic photography, which will probably throw a new light on the true nature of alloys.

A HISTORIC TELEGRAM.

A HISTORIC TELEGRAM.

One of the greatest services ever rendered by the telegraph was the transmission from Delhi of the famous telegram of May 11, 1857, which warned the Punjaub of the outbreak of the Indian mutiny. The telegrapher, Brendish, who sent the message, has just retired from the service in receipt of a special pension equal to his salary. Brendish and Pilkington were the two young signallers under Mr. Todd, the superintendent of the Delhi telegraph office. On Sunday, May 10, at 4 pm., it was found that the line from Meerut was interrupted, and Mr. Todd started to find out the break. At the bridge of boats across the Jumna he was met by the mutineers the following morning and murdered. The lads, who were left alone in the office outside the Kashmir gate, saw the mutineers pass, and continued steadily telegraphing to Lahore all the news brought in by peons as to the doings of the mutineers in the city. Brendish went out at noon to see what was going on but was desifed by a wounded British officer to go in and close the doors. There for two hours the two, with the widow and child of Mr. Todd, remained, and at 2 p.m., Brendish went to the Umballa instrument and telegraphed the historic message: "The Sepoys have come in from Meerut, and are burning everything Mr. Todd is dead, and, we hear, several Europeans. We must shut up. And now I am off." The little party then made their way to the Flagstaff Tower, where the Europeans had congregated, and from there saw the blowing up of the magazine. That night they fled to Umballa. Before they left the tower Pilkington went back to the office to send a message for an officer. Every step of the way was taken in danger of instant death, but the daring mission was acwent back to the office to send a reage for an officer. Every step of way was taken in danger of ins death, but the daring mission was complished, for the message is recoras having been received. ELECTRICITY IN A SHIRT FAC-

An electric plant embodying some novel features has been installed in a novel features has been installed in a shirt factory in New Jersey. While all the machinery is worked electrically, special application of current is made to heating systems and appliances which form an important part of the working plant. When the system of heating to be adopted was under con-sideration, it was claimed by the engi-neers, and, in fact, guaranteed by them that the heating could be done more neers, and, in fact, guaranteed by them that the heating could be done more efficiently by electricity than by the ordinary gas apparatus, and this has been practically accomplished. This installation is the largest electric heating system yet employed for any commercial manufacturing purpose. In the sewing-room there are ten long tables fitted with sewing machines operated by electric motors. Each table contains thirty machines. The capacity of the entire sewing equipment is about tains thirty machines. The capacity of the entire sewing equipment is about 7500 yards of goods-daily. In the making of the various shirts, waists, etc. thousands of miles of thread are consumed every day. After the garment has been put together in the sewing-room, it is passed on to the electric starching machinery, and then carried to the drying-room. This compartment has a capacity of about 300 dozen garments, which take about an hour to dry. A special section is devoted to ironing. This includes six electrically heated collar and cuff ironing machines, which are operated by a six-horse which are operated by a six-horse heated collar and cuff ironing machines, which are operated by a six-horse power electric motor, and two long tables each equipped with forty electrically-heated hand sadirons of an improved type, making an aggregate of eighty electrically-heated irons. The improvement in the health of the working staff since electricity took the place of gas throughout the factory is said to be remarkable. Not only is there markedly less absenteelsm, but the increased proportion of actual work obtained from the hands is so great as to materially affect the profits of the concern.

After their brief hour of penp, the floats built for a flesta illuminated parade are about as useless a lot of old lumber and waste paper as one can imagine. One good end for them has been discovered. A. P. Cross, the street sprinkling contractor, was a member of the Committee on Floats. He worked diligently for the success of the night parade, himself supplied all the horses needed to draw the floats and was a prime mover in the construction of the mustard-bedecked "Haymakers' Float" in the floral parade, As a mark of their appreciation of his efforts, the other members of the Float Committee voted to give him a float.

At night, mysteriously and in darkness, the fairy palace was removed from its wagon bed and set up in the rear yard of Mr. Cross's home, at No. 1042 Wall street. When morning came and his little son woke up and looked out of the window he saw the gorgeous structure standing there, with its arches and columns, its grinning griffins, its cobwebs and its enormous poppies. He was beside himself with joy, and all the children in the neighborhood were as delighted as he with that marvelous playhouse.

Moses went to the college! That is what the famous Cambridge Egyptolo-gist, the Rev. Haskett Smith, M. A., said last night in his lecture in the Y. M. C. A. Hall, on "Seven Thousand Years Ago."

The university at which Moses was ducated was amply able to challenge comparison with the universities of to-It was the University of On, famous and powerful in the year 4600 B. and colleges of the Egypt of 6000 years ago.

The xplanation of all the mysteries of Egypt was declared by Mr. Smith to be the Egyptian conception of the soul. He said that the people of Egypt believed in the same God as the Christians of today, one, eternal all powerful and all-wise. He said that they believed in the immortality of the human soul and the resurrection of the body. Their belief differed from that of the Christian world in their ideas of resurrection.

Their belief differed from that of the Christian world in their ideas of resurrection.

The soul was believed upon death to leave the body for a time. It was its destiny to live in some mysterious, unknown world for thousands of years, and at last return to the body for another earthly life. If the body were destroyed, the soul must die. As the body decayed and mouldered into dust, the soul was believed to sicken and pine, until at last, with the destruction of the last vestige of the body, the soul was snuffed out like the fiame of a candle. With this belief in their hearts, life held no more solemn duty for the Egyptians than preparation for death. Upon the preservation of the body depended all a man's hopes of a future existence. When a monarch came to the throne, his first thought was to the throne, his first thought was to the prepare a tomb in which his body might rest for unnumbered thousands of years, until the soul should come again to earth. When future life depended upon the protection of the lifeless corpse from self-decay, from the actions of the elements, and the depredations of man, no expense could be too vast, no effect too great, no planning too arduous to secure complete protection for the body.

This is the secret of the building of the pyramids, those huge stone mountains, with their uncanny passages and galleries, their mysterious openings, and hidden chambers. This is the secret of the magnificent tombs of the Egypttian deserts, cut in the living rock, and superbly chiseled and enriched.

The Egyptologist talked fascinatingly of Memphis, the mighty city of the dead, of the Nile, and the country through which it flows, of the museums filled with the wonderful relics of that elder time, of the solving of the mysteries locked up in the hieroglyphics believed for so many centuries to be forever unsolvable, and of all the wonders and marvels the very sound of the name of Egypt conjures up. Fine stereoptican views of Egyptian scenery, archeology and art were flashed upon the screen.

The close-mouthed policy of the widow and her friends is by no means confined to outside investigations. Up to 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon Mrs. Harrold had not sent a word of information to her dead husband's brother, the Texas banker. FAILURE TO SUPPORT.

OFFICER MATUSZKIEWIZ IS IN MORE TROUBLE.

Petition to the Police Commissioners and Complain of the Officer's Neglect of His Family.

The Board of Police Commissioners met in regular session yesterday morning. The seat formerly occupied by Mr. Forman was empty, as was that of Commissioner Wyman. There was a subdued air about the meeting, which may have been caused by regret for the absent ones or fear of a similar un-toward fate. The vacant chair stood as an awful monument to Mr. Forman's unflinching service as a commissioner, and warned more flexible men that policy was to be considered before pub-duty. On recommendation of Chief Glass the transfer of the saloon license for No. 162 North Los Angeles atreet from H. J. A. Stuhr to Robert Mosbacher was granted.

Leave of absence was granted to Police Detective Bradish for twenty days by an unanimous vote.

A communication was received from Hanna & Davis, attorneys for Mrs. Matuszkiewiz, who stated that Bolice Officer Matuszkiewiz had failed to comply with the directions of Chief Glass, given by order of the board, to the end that the police officer turn over to his wife at least one half of his salary for the support of herself and four minor children. The officer is said to have refused to obey the order and his family has been compelled to seek relief from friends with whom and upon whose bounty she is living. The assistance of the board is invoked either to compel Matuszkiewiz to provide for his wife and family or in default of such provision to discharge him from the force.

Chief Glass stated that he had given the order to Matuszkiewiz to take care of his family but he knew nothing

A communication was received from W. Walker, complaining that bicyclists were in the habit of using the sidewalk on Buena Vista street, north of the Baker Iron Works. The complainant thought that equal protection should be afforded to all parts of the city and stated that the matter had been laid before Chief Glass, who was said to have given no relief. A communication was received from Julids C. Behnke, asking that an ordinance be submitted to the Council requiring every vehicle, from private carriages to Chinese vegetable wagons, "to register and carry their numbers in plain, visible ciphers," and thus be held responsible without difficulty for any accidents. The communication was inspired by an accident which recently happened on Main street, and from which the responsible person escaped without being detected.

The application of W. E. de Groot for permission to stand a hack at Nos. 112 and 116 South Spring street was referred to Chief Glass.

The application of Silas Hart for permission to stand a coupe in front of the Hoffman Cafe was referred to Chief Glass.

Affidavits were filed in the matter of A. B. Bates to show his physical incapacity and moral character. A. J. Wells and wife, J. P. The case of Charles Brooks, the expressman who has been standing his wagon near the corner of Third and Broadway, was then taken, Brooks's permit was revoked some time ago, and he has also been arrested for standing his horse too near the corner. It was charged by ex-Police Commissioner Forman at a previous meeting that Brooks's horse was exceedingly vicious and frequently bit passers-by. Brooks explained yesterday that his horse was harmless, and that he had stood his wagon at a spot where directed by a police sergeant. After hearing his case the board decided to grant Brooks his Work Completed.

Street Superintendent Drain has re ported to the Council that the cement curb and cement sidewalk along the curb and cement sidewalk along the east line of Menlo avenue from the south line of Adams street to the north line of Twenty-ninth street has been completed by the property-owners, leaving nothing to be done in accordance with ordinance 4175. It therefore rests with the Council to abandon proceedings on said ordinance.

The City Clerk has filed a report on the issuance of city licenses for the month of April. He shows that 1805 licenses, amounting to $16,619.50, were made out and delivered to the City Auditor, two licenses were void when issued. According to the report of the City Tax and License Collector 1363 licenses, amounting to $15,237, were collected and 441 licenses, amounting to $1382.50, were returned uncollected. The report of the City Tax and License Collector shows that 441 of the delinquent licenses, amounting to $1382.50, were returned to the City Clerk, of which 65, amounting to $502.50, were either double, void, out of business or refused, and 376 licenses, amounting to $880, have been turned fiver to the City Tax and License Collector for collection.

The boy's father died when he was very young, and his mother when he was only 9 years old. The boy had a step-father, but the man went to the northern part of the State, and his present whereabouts are unknown. Ever since he was 9 years old, the boy has been thrown on his own resources. Four years ago he was knocked down and hurt by some runaway cab horses on Second street. He was takem to the Receiving Hospital, and from there to the Newsboys' Home, where he has lived off and on ever since. He went East and was sent to a reform school in Nebraska. He has lived here since, earning a living by selling papers, passing bills, and picking up odd jobs of one kind and another.

VALDEZ BOUND OVER.

THE MEXICAN BOY WILL BE TRIED

Confession to be False, Roney Crane Was Discharged Without

Young Frank Valdez was held to an swer before the Superior Court yester-day on a charge of muriler. Valdez's examination before Justice William Young in the Township Court was concluded yesterday afternoon. He was on sconer bound over for the murder of Michael H. Lorden, a Calabasas storekeeper, then Roney Crane, who was implicated in the crime by Valdez's confession, was ordered discharged from crime by the confession, was ordered discharged from contents and the resident and the confession of the confession om custody, and the complaint filed against him dismissed.

Valdez made two confessions, both against him dismissed.

Valdez made two confessions, both of which he made while under arrest. The first one was extracted from him at Calabasas by Constable Harvey Branscombe. Branscombe told the details of this confession on the witness stand yesterday. He said he had told the boy he might as well tell all about it, as he had all the facts of the case anyway. Valdez, accordingly told the Constable that he had been offered $100 by Justice of the Peace N. M. Richardson of Calabasas to do the killing.

Valdez said, however, that he had not gone to Lorden's store on the night of the latter's death with the intention of taking his life. He said he had shot Lorden in self-defense, and that if he had not done so the storekeeper would have attacked him with an ax handle. As there were several apparent discrepances in this statement of the case, Justice Richardson was never arrested. After Valdez had been brought to Los Angeles and placed in the County Jail he made a second confession. This confession was made in the presence of a member of. the District Attorney's office, reduced to writing, and signed by the young Mexican.

In this statement of the murder, Valdez had gone with him to Lorden's store with the purpose of taking his life. Crane bears a rhard reputation, and his arrest was at once made. Valdez said that Crane gave him a dollar to buy some provisions of the storekeeper, and when Lorden turned his back to get the purchases, Crane was to have shot him in the back. This programme was interrupted, Valdez said, by the fact that Lorden did not turn to get the purchases, crane was to have shot him in the back. This programme was interrupted, Valdez said, by the fact that Lorden did not turn to get the purchases or any change, keeping the dollar on an old debt.

to give him either the purchases or any change, keeping the dollar on an old debt.

Valdez's story of how he came to shoot Lorden, while the latter was in the act of attacking him with an upraised ax handle, was the same in each of his confessions. Since his arrest the young Mexican has detailed his movements immediately subsequent to the shooting, and certain conversations with people who knew him, in which he said he confessed that he fired the shot which proved fatal to the store-keeper. The prosecution produced these people at the examination, and their testimony so flatly contradicted the statements of Valdez that the other items of his confessions were looked into more carefully. After Branscombe had told of the boy's first confession he testified with regard to finding the pistol. Crane had been told by Valdez that the pistol was hidden at a certain sheep ranch, locating the place where it was secreted Crane told Branscombe of the

had been told by valdez that the pistol was hidden at a certain sheep ranch, locating the place where it was secreted. Crane told Branscombe of the whereabouts of the gun, and Branscombe went and found it where Valdez said he had hidden it.

Crane was called to the witness stand and told of the revolver episode. He denied Valdez's statements in regard to his part in the crime. Other testimony was introduced, all tending to show that the defendant at bar was a colosal liar, and that the statements made in his confessions were untrue. When he was ordered held to answer by Justice Young he seemed to think the situation a very humorous one, as he did not seek to conceal his merriment over something. After he one, as ne du not seek to conceal his merriment over something. After he had ordered Valdez bound over with-out bonds, the Justice ordered Roney Crane released from custody, as there was no evidence to connect him with Lorden's murder.

WARNER ON TRIAL.

Bellew Met Death.

Will Warner was on trial yesterday perfore Judge B. N. Smith in Department One of the Superior Court for the murder of James Bellew. "Kid" Brown has been found guilty of murdering Bellew and given a sentence of life imprisonment. "Morphine Maud" lerce has also been found guilty o complicity in the murder, and the verdict of the jury in her trial was man-slaughter. Now the other of the col-ored trio charged with the crime has been given a chance to prove his inno-cence, if he can.

It took but a short time to impanel a been given a chance to prove his innocence, if he can.

It took but a short time to impanel a jury to try Warner, and but a short time for the prosecution to introduce all its testimony. The same old story of how Brown and Warner followed Bellew on the night of the tragedy was gone over again, and no new evidence was introduced, until Warner was placed on the witness stand as the first witness for the defense.

Warner has made more than one statement about the murder. After his arrest he made a confession and signed it after it had been reduced to writing, that branded Brown as the real murderer, and Maud Pierce as an accomplice and the one who actuated the deed. When called as a witness in Brown's trial Warner told how his dusky partner had struck the blow that killed Bellew, but when asked to testify in the trial of "Morphine Maud" he begged to be excused.

Yesterday Warner was asked what his occupation was, and answered that he was a vocalist by profession, although he frequently indulged in a little buck and wing dancing. He said he was drunk when he accompanied Brown in following Bellew and Howerton, but the "Kid" said that if he would come with him he would get plenty of money, so he went.

Warner said Brown told him to pick up a rock, which he did, but when Brown hit Bellew with the club, Warner took to his heels, and was, according to his own testimony, very much frightened at the turn matters had taken. One of the jurors asked Warner ends to his heels, and was, according to his own testimony, very much frightened at the turn matters had taken. One of the jurors asked Warner answered that he was so anxious to escape any complicity whatever in the matter that he ran rapidly away, fearful lest some officer might arrest him for the deed. The trial will be resumed this morning.

IN THE OIL FIELD.

Mrs. Trafton Secures an Order Restraining Parker.

Mrs. D. P. Trafton is a lady who has a grievance. She owns a fine home on Bonnie Brae street, the electric cars run by her property, and she ways she was offered $10,000 for it before a certain oil derrick was placed in close proximity

Parker & Morrell built an oil derrick just at the edge of airs. Traiton's lot and but a very short distance from her house. As an outcome of the erection of this derrick, Mrs. Traiton filed a suit not long ago. This suit was an action in which she sought to recover

$750 damages sustained by her property on account of the oil well then in process of construction, and to obtain a restraining order enjoining L. G. Parker cess of construction, and to obtain a restraining order enjoining L. G. Parker from drilling the well.

The complaint alleged that when the drilling was going on and the wind was blowing in a certain direction, at every rise of the rope the oil would blow on Mrs. Trafton's lawn and on her house. Yesterday the application for a restraining order was heard by Judge Shaw in Department Five. Judge Shaw, after hearing the evidence introduced, made an order enjoining Parker from drilling unless the wind was in such a direction as to blow the oil away from Mrs. Trafton's property.— Parker was also ordered to build a high board fence between the derrick and Mrs. Trafton's lot, so that no more trouble would be had by reason of oil running on her land. The suit for damages will be tried soon.

Quantities of yellow and white marguerites and mustard were arranged about the front parlor, and the doorway between the two rooms was a feathery mass of sweet fennel and marguerites. The hall and the diningroom, where a supper was served after the ceremony, were profusely decorated with pink sweet peas and roses, ferns and smilax. The diningroom was presided over by the Misses Mary Marriner, Vora Pierce, May, Jessie and Grace Frazer, all in dainty gowns of organdle. A large number of handsome gifts were received. Climate and Crop Bulletin.

Very unsettled weather prevailed during the past week, with frequent light showers of rain in the southern sections and a heavy shower in the Crafton district on the 2d, which enabled ranchers to cultivate in good shape. Night fogs were frequent along the coast, which, in connection with considerable cloudiness, were beneficial to grain; grain in the uplands needs rain, but in the lower valleys hay cutting is in general progress. The reports continue favorable regarding deciduous fruits, except prunes in Ventura county, which are dropping. Root crops are doing well and bean planting has begun in the northern districts.

San Luis Obispo: The fogs of the week have aided in keeping grain fresh; rain is needed in the eastern portion of the county. Highest temperature, $2 deg.; lowest, $3 deg.

Ventura county—Bardsdale: The weather was misty at the close of the week, but no rain fell; the surface of the ground is very dry. Apricot trees are well set with fruit, but prunes have about all dropped off, due to sudden hot weather. Bean planting has begun.

West Saticoy, Ventura county: Dry weather continues, and feed in the hills is fact drying up; cultivation of ground is still in progress, and some farmers are planting corn and beans; Apricots are growing, but will be a light crop.

Los Angeles county—Los Angeles city: The temperature was slightly lower than the average and the rainfall was deficient. The highest temperature

The receipt of the above telegram yesterday morning brought joy untoid to the hearts of the Citrus Fruit-Growners. ers' Tariff Committee, for it meant that the hardest battle was over; that the Finance Committee of the Senate I made a report favorable to the ch-desired 1-cent rate, and that a adv standing to the guns would, in steady standing to the guns would, in all probability, insure the final victory, and give the citrus fruit-growers of Southern California a chance to make a living profit in the marketing of their

This little matter of a cent a pound means about 65 cents on every box of oranges that comes into the country, and a gain of $1,300,000 on this year's crop in California. Even if there is no immediate jump in prices a suitable duty on citrus fruits will afford sufficient protection, to the crange of icient protection to the orange and emon-growers of Southern California ncourage them to renewed efforts to ntain a high standard of excellence, maintain a high standard of excellence, both as to quality and quantity. The proposed rate will keep out the trash with which importers have been flooding the markets, and the limiting of the competition to/good foreign fruit will be of inestimable benefit to the California grower. F. Q. Story, chairman of the Executive Committee, confidently predicts that with the 1-cent rate, the output of California fruit will increase 200 per cent. furling the next ten years, and that the larger volume of business will enable the railroads to reduce their freight rates 25 or 20 per cent., a thing which is now most desirable, but practically impossible.

Senator White's telegram was supplewhich is now most desirable, but prac-tically impossible.

Senator White's telegram was supple-mented by one from M. J. Daniels, a member of the delegation sent to Washington. This was addressed to Frank Wiggins, secretary of the Exec-

Frank Wiggins, secretary of the Executive Committee, and was as follows:
"Your earnest work, our persistent efforts, sub-committee report 1-cent citrus fruit, 2 cents Zante currants."
Mr. Danlels struck the keynote of the whole situation. It has been only by earnest work and persistent efforts at both ends of the line that the victory has been at last almost assured.
Convinced that the very life of the citrus industry of Southern California depended upon a suitable duty being rus industry of Southern California de-pended upon a suitable duty being placed upon foreign fruit, the efforts of the committee have been unceasing; Subscriptions have poured in, the growers voluntarily taxing themselves 20 cents an acre and one-third of a cent per box, to raise funds for carry-ing on the fight. The State Fruit Growers' Association nearly ruined everything by asking for only 20 cents per cubic foot on fruit, which would have given the orange-growers a rate have given the orange-growers a rate of half-a-cent a pound, but even this obstacle has been overthrown and now of half-a-cent a pound, but even this obstade has been overthrown and now victory, is well-nigh certain.

F. Q. Story has been interested for over a year in the matter of obtaining suitable protection for the Southern California growers of citrus fruits. He used evey effort to arouse to action the Southern California Fruit Exchange, and with the aid of Secretary Packard of that organization, valuable data on the subject were obtained. Early in December, 1898, B. A. Woodford of San Bernardino attended a meeting of the Semi-tropic Fruit Exchange, of which Mr. Story is president, and a conference heid then resulted in a call for a general convention of citrus fruit-growers to consider the tariff question.

This convention was held very soon after, at the Chamber of Commerce. It was attended by over 200 of the large growers of Southern California, and was a most enthusiastic meeting. At this convention the general committee was a most enthusiastic meeting. At this convention the general committee was appointed, including the following members: George Frost, Riverside county; E. F. C. Klokke, Orange county, F. Q. Story, Los Angeles county; T. H. B. Chamblin, Riverside county; N. W. Blanchard, Ventura county; N. W. Blanchard, Ventura county; R. A. Woodford, San Bernardino county; E. P. Hollister, Santa Barbara county; R. H. Young, San Diego county; A. T. Hutchison, Kern county. The officers were: George Frost, president; E. F. C. Klokke, treasurer, and W. C. Fuller, C. Colton, secretary. Afterward, to centralize the working force, C. D. Willard, then secretary of the Chamber of Commerce, was appointed secretary of Mr. Fuller, and Mr. Willard, then secretary of the Chamber of Commerce, was appointed secretary in place of Mr. Fuller, and Mr. Willard was, in turn, succeeded by Franky Wiggins, who now holds the office. The Executive Committee inculdes: F. Q. Story, chairman; E. F. C. Klokke, T. H. B. Chamblin.

This committee has been in session daily at the Chamber of Commerce for the last three months, and an enormous amount of work has been done. Cords their efforts rather than relax

It is a most critical period for the fruit-growers of this region. Stacks of lemons of the first quality are being held back because, with the present rate, the market prices would not pay freight charges. Maj. Klokke, who has been one of the most enthusiastic and untiring of the workers, is in favor of redoubling them now, and his opinion is shared by the entire committee. There is too much at stake to risk losing it all by neglect or fancied security, but with steady attention, the 1-cent rate will soon be an assured fact.

Than the Limit of One Hundred Thousand - Increased Facilities for Postal Service-Eight Additional Carriers.

Los Angeles is a city with 102,760 inhabitants. The final returns from the recount made by the postal clerks and carriers was received last night, and though the exact official result will not be known until the typewritten records are finished, the utmost variation will not be more than a hundred or two. The extra company that taken Los Angeles is a city with 102,760 inor two. The extra census just taken definitely proves the astonishing fact that the city has more than doubled its size within the last six years.

that the city has more than doubled its size within the last six years.

Much discussion has arisen over the advisability of taking this extra census, some short-sighted economists having endeavored to stop the proceedings on account of the expense. The result is the best answer to all such objections, for it places Los Angeles at once where she belongs, and gives her the credit she deserves for her energy and enterprise in thus doubling her population since the last national census. Every book of statistics in the country has hitherto given Los Angeles only 50,834 inhabitants, as shown by the census of 1890, and had it not been for the energy of Inspector Flint and Postmaster Mathews in agitating the question of an extra census in order to procure better postal service, Los Angeles would have remained, as far as all official records were concerned, a city of 50,834 inhabitants until the next national census in 1900.

Now that the exact figures can be given in proof of the phenomenal growth of the city, the effect will be incalculable with regard to business enterprises and the investment of capital. It is better than all the advertising that could be done in the interests ital. It is better than all the advertising that could be done in the interest of Southern California, and the progres

ing that could be done in the interests of Southern California, and the progressive business men fully realize the fact. The immediate effect is felt in the postal service. Tired of the difficulties encountered in the attempt to give proper service to a city of 100,000, with a force and equipment based on a census report of 50,000, Gen. Mathews and his assistants have left no stone unturned to secure a proper rating, upon which could be based a claim for suitable appropriations.

These efforts have been rewarded with success. In the matter of the census, the postmaster was energetically supported by the Chamber of Commerce, the Board of Trade, and the Merchants' and Manufacturers' Association, and the result has amply justified all trouble and expenditure. In addition to this, Gen. Mathews received a letter from Hon. F. H. Jones, First Assistant. Fostmaster-General authorizing him to appoint the eight additional letter carriers of which the city stands so much in need; the appointments to take effect July 1. This will give free postal delivery to 18,850 people within the present city limits who are new outside the district covered by the mail carriers. Before the annexation of the suburbs, 6760 taxpayers within the old city limits could not be given efficient postal service. Things were bad enough then, but when the extension of the city limits swelled the number to 16,850, strenuous efforts had to be made to secure better service.

The postal department makes its appropriations for buildings elected and

The postal department makes its appropriations for buildings, clerks and carriers in proportion to the receipts of the postoffice and the number of inhab-The postal department makes its appropriations for buildings, clerks and carriers in proportion to the receipts of the postoffice and the number of inhabitants in the city, hence the difficulty in securing a sufficient force of clerks and carriers upon the old census reports, especially as the receipts of the local office are smaller than they would be in a compact commercial or manufacturing city the size of Los Angeles.

Cities of 75,000 or more inhabitants are entitled to three classes of mall carriers. Carpiers of the first-class draw a salary of $1000 per annum; of the third, $600 per annum. Cities with less than 75,000 inhabitants have only two classes of carriers; the second at a yearly salary of $550, and the third, paid $600. Until now, Los Angeles has ranked in the latter class, and the insufficient force of poorly-paid letter-carriers has been the result.

In the future, with the additional carriers, and the increased salaries, $48,940.75 a year will come into the city without the cost of a dollar to the taxpa, ers, beyond the first cost of the census. The total increase for five years will amount to $76,050. Without the census, the city would have had to wait five years, until the taking of the national census, and sustain the loss of all that will be gained under the new rating in that time, to-wit: $34,000 in increase of appropriations for salaries, and $41,650 for the eight additional letter-carriers making the total gain of $76,650 in appropriations for the local postal service.

Eight letter-carriers is the largest number ever granted to any one office at one time, and their appointment is due entirely to the untiring efforts of Postał Inspector M. H. Filint and Postmaster J. R. Mathews. With the new force the whole city can be given the benefit of the system of free postal delivery. This will greatly relieve the strain at the main office, as it will do away with many of the complaints that are now unavoldable, and give the clerks more time to attend to their own duties. When the improvements i

In addition to these printed and written appeals to those in power, three able and experienced fruit-growers were sent to Washington to give the battle their undivided personal attention. These men are M. J. Daniels of Riverside; H. K. Snow of Tustin and B. F. Allen of Covina. At the expiration of his term in Congress. Hon. James McLachhan also joined this delegation, and all four gentlemen have done most effective work.

Senators Stephen M. White and George C. Perkins have been in the forefront of the fight ever since the first gun was ilred. As a result of their efforts, the gain of one-fourth of a cent per pound has just been made over the report of the Finance Committee of the House, which favored a rate of three-fourths of a ceat, instead of the raisin-growers of the great San Joaquin Valley, and it is more than likely actually and the committee will not drug this rate up to the figure proved by the House. AFTER CHIEF GLASS'S PLACE

THE OLD HUNGER GETS THE BET.

Will Try to Make Over the Board of Police Commissioners Accord-ing to Their First Plans and

The summary dismissal of Police Commissioner Forman by the Council was the only topic of conversation about the City Hall yesterday, and many surmises were ventured as to what future developments were in store. The absurdity of the flimsy pre-text upon which Commissioner For-man's seat was declared vacant was so apparent, and the real purpose of the "combine" which effected his ejectment so plain to view, that no one was de-ceived. It was not the falsely-alleged ownership of stock in a street railway company that led to his retirement nor even his insistence upon the en-forcement of ordinary business meth-ods in the police department. These matters merely furnished the occasions; the true cause was deep-seated and of

long-time origin

When negotiations were in progress for the organization of the present Council, the Democratic steering committee, an ill-advised advisory board of politicians, approached Mr. Sliver with a proffer of the presidency of the Council upon certain terms of their own dictation. These conditions among other things were to bind Mr. Silver to support the Democratic nominee of the committee for the various commissioners which rule the department of the city under the supervision of the City under the supervision of the Council. Mr. Silver fiatly refused to put himself under such obligations. When he was later chosen president of the Council by the Republican members, he voted in favor of the members of the present commission. Mr. Forman was in fact placed upon the Board of he voted in favor of the members of the present commission. Mr. Forman was in fact placed upon the Board of Police Commissioners as a Democrat at President Silver's request. The commissioners were made bi-partisan, as the charter directs, but the men suggested by the Demo. Populistic combine were ignored. This grievance has been nursed and coddled from that day to this.

After settling into his seat, Commissioner Forman started in a mild way to reform the police department, or at least to enforce strict discipline. He has been called the Roosevelt of Los Angeles, but that is a distinction to which he probably did not aspire. At any rate he was instrumental, as one forceful member of a board of five commissioners, in holding dereliet officers to account. He took an aggressive stand against the abuses prevailing, before he came into office, in the indiscriminate issuance of police stars to men with more or less slender political "pulls." Nearly all of these were cherished by the holders because of the pecuniary benefits derived from the right to ride free on the street railway lines, and the dead-head privileges at the doors of places of amusement. All of the special stars were called in and very few were ever issued again. Of course every man who was cut out of a salary of $150 or $200 a year by this action of the Police Commissioners treasured up a grudge from that moment against Commissioner Forman, who was the author of the motion which was adopted.

The last offense in the eyes of new "combine" in the Council and the particular act which led to Commissioner Forman's downfall, was the issuance of an order from executive session of the board requiring every police officer to copy in full, under the supervision of the clerk of the board, his application for appointment on the force. This was done, it is generally understood, with the express consent of Mayor Snyder, for the purpose of testing the legality of the handwriting of the police officers, many of whom were suspected of achieving feats of penmanship by twenty members of the police force were to be discharged, because of educational disqualifications. Councilman Nickell stated on the floor of the Council last Monday that for several days his house had been infested by police officers, who sought his intercession in their behalf, and no better proof is needed that the Democratic Councilmen, who were dissatisfied with Commissioner Forman's election in January, were spurred on to remove him at once. The political influence of an applicant for appointment on the police force is known to be the measure of his success in "landing." The ambitious applicant appeals to his Councilmen, who states the case to the member of the Board of Police Commissioners whom he helped elect, and the would-be officer secures his star. Then all three join hands and darce in a ring.

missioners whom he helped elect, and the would-be officer secures his star. Then all three Join hands and dance in a ring.

The pay roll of the police department on January 20, 1897, since which date no material change has been made in the force, shows eight police officers from the First Ward, twelve from the Second Ward, nine from the Third Ward, six from the Fourth Ward, four from the Fifth Ward, fitteen from the Sixth Ward, eight from the Seventh Ward, seven from the Eighth Ward and fourteen from the Ninth Ward. The members of the "combine are well represented in this list, and, of course, have the most to lose by a charge and the least to gain from a Board of Police Commissioners over which they exert no political influence.

At any rate, they turned 'Dommissioner Forman down in a way which is acknowledged to be more to his credit than to theirs. What was the price of the deal Councilman Bianchard can best say, if he would. The four Democrats, Hutchison, Grider, Ashman and Nickell, lacked a majority, and they sought Blanchard's vote. It is not to be supposed that he quit his party associates, as he quit them in the Board of Health row, without taking the prize, as he took it on that previous occasion, and it is a natural conclusion that he will name Mr. Forman's successor. If Blanchard names the new commissioner, he will have the benefit of the advice of Coroner "Doc" Campbell, George Arnold and Supervisor Wirsching in selecting a Democrat, whose chief qualification shall be his harmlessness. No one has been mentioned to meet this requirement of innocuousness more completely than ex-Councilman Rees. Ex-Councilman Innes has been muggested for the place, but he is geographically a missfit.

It is known that the Democratic push is not yet satisfied and that in unguarded moments some of its members have betrayed future plans. Threats have been made that Commissioner Wyman may be made to walk the plank, and the complexion of the board so changed as to arrange for the removal of Chief of Police Glass. It

Wyman was preparing to withdraw from the board voluntarily because of his weariness and disgust with the whole business. As for Chief Glass, while the Democrats have been forced to support him morelly as an official, it is of record that they want his place for a man of their own naming. In private they blame Chief Glass for the recent turmoil in the Police Department, and say that he instigated Commissioner Forman to some of his most radical moves in the hope of ridding the police force of its oldest or most inefficient men. Mr. Forman, unfortunately for the manufacturers of this hostile sentiment against Chief Glass, appears to be willing to shoulder all the credit or blame for fits official acts, and has shown no inclination to share the burden of his mighty offenses, and as the final coup of the conspirators has become obvious since their last bold political stroke, the current of public opinion has set strong against them. The principal argument which they advanced against Commissioner Forman has been turned to their discomfiture. It was said in the Council that one Police Commissioner had democralized the whole police force, and subverted the discipline of the department. Yesterday it was said that a few police officers had proved that they had sufficient political influence with the Council to cause the removal of a Police Commissioner whom they feared to comply with the rules of the department.

While Councilman Hutchison introduced and supported the motions declaring Commissioner Forman's place vacant, he cannot be accorded the honor of preparing the plans for this rear attack upon Chief Glass. The maneuvers were mapped out, in all likelihood by Mayor Snyder and Councilman Grider, who are now staunch friends. At the last moment Councilman Grider's courage failed him, and, knowing Hutchison's love of occupying the publice eye, he shoved the Councilman from the Eighth Ward to the center of the stage. The rest of the "combine" were well satisfied to cast their votes with the least possible obtrusiveness, and were content to be mentioned only as "among those present."

Jones and Bogan Matched.

Harry Jones and Fred Bogan, the featherweight champion of the Coast, featherweight champion of the Coast, signed articles yesterday for a 15-round boxing exhibition to be given before the Los Angeles Athletic Club on the 25th of this month. Jones boxed an 18-round draw with Young Dempsey before the club several months ago, and is considered good enough to go against any in his class. Bogan is probably one of the best-known boxers on the Coast, having met and defeated Dal Hawkins, the conquerer of Flaherty at Carson, on two different occasions, as well as having two draws to his credit with the same man.

Yee Sing, an employe under the Chinese Consul in San Francisco, in an interview with a writer on the Tribune is Salt Lake, stated that there are now in California 5000 Chinese engaged in washing gravel, and that their earnings averaged from 50 cents to $1.50 a day.

OFFICE OF THE TIMES, Los Angeles, May 4, 1897. BIMETALLISM. If the following rom Bradstreet's, represents the views of the average financier in the East—and there is no reason to suppose that does not, as Bradstreet's is a representative journal-it is evident that eastern ple do not have much faith in the cess of any effort for the introduc-n of the international bimetallism

No one, we take it, outside the ranks "No one, we take it, outside the range of the most persistent bimetallists of liver men-looks to see any practice usuals grow out of the appointment of monetary commissioners this weel. The fact is that conditions abroad anot of a kind to encourage the hopes those who look to see the adoption. those who look to see the adoption of an international agreement. There have been times in the past when the idea of some such agreement seemed to hold out attractions for certain European statesmen, even in Great Britain, but the tendency of events has been to strengthen the hold which the gold standard has upon the progressive nations of the world. Mr. Balfour, particularly when out of office, was looked upon with hope by the bimetallists, but he cannot be said to furnish much encouragement for them today. This was made manifest by an answer he made this week-to a question regarding the prospects of the British government sending out invitations to a bimetallic the prospects of the British governetallic sending out invitations to a bimetallic conference. He declared that there was anothing in the situation which would lead him to suppose that anything could be gained by Great Britain-taking the initiative in promoting such a conference.

THE EASTSIDE BANK. The East side Bank has removed to the south-east corner of First and Broadway. Frank P. Flint has been elected vice-president, and J. A. Muir takes the place of Thomas Meredith on the board of directors.

RUSHING IMPORTS. Reference was recently made in this column to the manner in which imports of wool were being rushed in by eastern importers, 3.25. so as to take advantage of the coming change in tariff. It is not only in the line of wool that such action has been taken, as will be seen from the fol-lowing letter, published in the American Economist, from a correspondent in Bradford Eng.

lowing letter, published in the American Economist, from a correspondent in Bradford, Eng.

"Have you seen the returns of declared shipments just lisued by the United States Consul for March? They are simply astounding. Never was anything like them. This was the kind of language that filled every one's mouth in Bradford when Claude Meeker published his figures two days ago. And, in fact, they are, when one soberly looks at them, astounding in the extreme. Just think of it, $4,223,105 worth of goods sent to your side in the soberly looks at them, astounding in the extreme. Just think of it, $4,223,105 worth of goods sent to your side in the short space of 31 days. Why, the very bread of your mill operative is being literally torn from his hand by the foreigner. Directly Bradford knew that the true friend of America. William McKinley, was elected President, we knew that, sooner or later, he would set about to redeem the lost prestige of America. Since he took the office on March 4, we have been frantic to ship stuff on to your shores, unsold or not, so long as they could find some one to take in the stuff. In order to render as ineffective as possible the coming new tariff, our manufacturers here, dye houses and other departments have, these last few weeks, been running day and night for the simple purpose of getting stuff out and off before the new act came into operation. That decisive vote by the House of Representatives to make the coming bill operative on all goods invoiced from April 1, has frightened many here, but the big push and spurt continues. "Claude Mecker's returns for last month offer to every member of the Senate food for sober thought. All that Bradford is anxious for is to see the Senate at loggerheads with the House of Representatives, and then, while they are debating the tariff question, we will empty every shoddled article in Yorkshire on to your shores.

while they are debating the tariff question, we will empty every shoddled article in Yorkshire on to your shores. Let your men of intelligence just think how your wool interests must now be crippled by this gigantic shipment from Bradford alone to the tune of $1.756,135. Then in London, American buyers have been monopolizing everything, and for the next ten years your sheep farmers' iterests have been crippled. And the same will be the case with your factories, too, if only the Wilson Bill will remain operative three months longer. The time is one for action, sharp and quick—that is, if America is to be sayed from further degredation and ruin."

As will be seen, the correspondent charges such action on the British manufacturers, but this is hardly fair. The manufacturers, but this is hardly fair. manufacturers, but this is hardly fair. The manufacturers, in most cases, are only carrying out instructions which they have received from importers on this side. It is a great pity that the retro-active clause of the Dingley tariff was not adopted, as to Judge from the manner in which things are going at present, unless the new tariff is soon settled it will be several years before the average producer of American goods who has not an unlimited bank account at his command, succeeds in getting any benefit from it, for the reason that the warehouses of the country will be filled up with stocks of products and goods of all descriptions that have been imported under the Wilson tariff.

GENERAL BUSINESS TOPICS.

A LESSON IN ECONOMY. Consul Germain writes from Zurich in regard to a plan recently introduced in the public schools of several European cities. In Brussels the children attendcities. In Brussels the children attending public schools were requested by their teachers to gather up, on their way to and from the school all such apparently valueless objects as old metallic bottle capsules, tin foil, tin cans, paint tubes, refuse metals, etc., and deliver their collections daily to their respective teachers. This apparent rubbish was disposed of, and the proceeds applied so as to completely clothe 500 poor children and send ninety sick ones to recuperation colonies, and there still remained quite a balance, which was distributed among the poor sick of the city.

POOR GAS. The complaint is general among those who use gas that its quality is not up to the old standard. Many consumers say that the deterioration in quality fully equals the decline in price in recent years, since the combination of oil with water for gas making was discovered. But most people content themselves with grumbling without trying to seek a remedy. Not so the people of Amherst, in New York State. They promptly called in, the aid of an inspector of the State Gas Commission, who found the gas below the lighting power described in the law. This was reported to the gas company, but no attention was paid to the complaint. Two subsequent tests were accordingly made, both showing gas below the legal standard. Then the matter was referred to the State Attorney-General, who promptly notified the gas company that, under laws of 1892, after three successive tests, each showing poor gas, the company was liable to a fine of $100 to be paid to the town. As the law was explicit, the gas company pald the $100 without waiting to be sued.

NEW YORK MARKETS.

Shares and Money. Shares and Money.

NEW YORK, May 4.—Several factors combined to give a strong tone to the market for stocks today, and the upward course of prices was practically without interruption in nearly all of the standard shares. The day closed with a burst of animation and a buoyancy of values which has not been equaled on the exchange for many weeks. The bears were fairly driven into a panic, and rushed pellmell to cover, prices jumping country or values which has not been equaled on the exchange for many weeks. The sales of sugar aggregated over one-fourth of the total sales, which were 210,000 shares, a figure in excess of any day's sales for several weeks. The immediate cause of the buoyancy was the reporting of the Tariff Bill to the Senate. The properties immediately, benefited by the provisions of the amended bill led in the advance, but the reporting of the bill today was unexpected in Wall street, and the forwardness of the work toward its enactment, where delay, was counted upon in the committee, gave an impetus to business. But the strength of the market was not all due to the reporting of the Tariff Bill. The weakness of the sterling exchange market indicated that further supments or gave an impetual to business. The market received encouragement at the opening from the good prices for Americans in Londou, though Londous sold isome thousands of shares of stocks here during the day which were, however, very well absorbed. There were slight recessions from the top in some stocks at the close, but the closing was strong and the day's gains were generally held and showed marked improvement in nearly every stock dealt in, except as above noted. [BY ASSOCIATE' PRIESS TIRE.]

CHICAGO, May 4.—In wheat, the long-looked-for sunshine was the only feature at the opening, the improvement in the weather not only counteracting the effect of higher quotations from Liverpool, London and Paris, but also wiping out about ½c of the price which prevailed at the close yesterday. The foreign markets were probably firmer because of the poor prospect for the growing crops of the United Kingdom and France. With the exception that the weather was more favorable for seeding, the home prospects were not better, but that one fact overshadowed everything else. July opened at 70%704, yesterday's close being 70½, It ranged between that and 69% for a time and then began to feel more and more the pressure from the sation, until the price had been forced 60%. It was hanging around the latter pool the Bradtreet 2 or 10% with the terment was received at 2 or 10% with the terment was received at 2 strong to the close of the close of the holds. It gave a decrease for the week of 6.216.000 bushels. Mayor of such a striking decrease and many heatiating bulls took hold also, but most of the heavy shorts waited until the buyers had exhausted themselves, which they did in a very short time after a sudden spurt had carried the price to 70½. Then the heavy guns were turned again on the market, and in half an hour they had smashed it to 68%. Chi-cago receipts were 24 cars. Minneapolis and Duluth got 39 carloads, against 375 a week ago and 531 a year ago. Atlantic port clearances were quite insignificant at 800 bushels of wheat and 12.442 barrels of flour. After declining near the close to 88%,685%, July stopped at 69, or 1½ close for the day. There was a fair amount of trade in corn, in which, as in wheat, the bears had the upper hand. The weakness was due to the fine weather in the courty proper hand.

The expected visit from the railway conductors on May 13 was discussed at some leagth by the directors. The annual convention of the order is to be held in Los Angeles at that time and it is probable that about 450 of the delegates will visit Pasadena. Arrangements will be made to give them a drive about the city while here.

Messrs. Stewart, Dobbins and Richardson were appointed a committee to canvass for subscriptions to the souvenir book of Pasadena which is soon to be published.

THE DOCTRINES OF THEOSOPHY. A good audience gathered this even-ing at the Auditorium to hear Mrs. An-nie Besant, the noted English exponent nie, Besant, the noted English exponent of the teachings of Theosophy. Mrs. Besant is a woman whose face commands attention. Strong-featured, intellectual and resolute, it bespeaks an unusual personality. Mrs. Besant is a fluent and a forcible speaker and for an hour and a half this evening held the close attention of her hearers. After a general review of the early beginnings of religion and the various yet similar symbols found among different races, Mrs. Besant controverted the scientific theory that all religions have their origin in human ignorance. Their true source was declared to be divine wisdom, which is truth. "All re-have their origin in human ignorance. Their true source was declared to be divine wisdom, which is truth. "All religions are brothers, growing from the same divine root." Twenty-five years ago religion was threatened by two enmies, materialism and superstition or religious bigotry. At this juncture Theosophy was again given to the world. It was only the old truth in new shape.

is published to the world as an ethical basis of conduct. The other is the teaching for the few, who by their deep earnestness become qualified to receive the higher knowledge. A precedent for such secret teachings was found in the Christian church.

The public teachings of theosophy embrace three cardinal points. The first is that God, the Logos, is the center of all life and of all existence. The second is that the life in all created things is a part of the divine life. The universe is an expression of the divine life. On this truth is based the teaching of brotherhood. The third important public teaching of theosophy is that the evolution of man takes place through reincarnation. This was formerly a doctrine of the Christian faith. If it were not true there would be little hope for some men who have become so degraded that growth would be impossible save through reincarnation. The doctrine of hell must be untrue, because it is unjust. Reincarnation makes human life intelligible. The effect of reincarnation in freeing the soul from evil was eloquently described. "Man may become whatever he chooses to be. It is in his power to become what he will. But only through reincarnation can he learn wisdom from the lessons of experience."

Mrs. Besant concluded her address with a graphic picture of the regenerating power of theosophy and the possibilities of good which it offers to every man.

This gruff remark was the outgrowth of the action the beard had growth of the action the board had just taken on a half-dozen or more petitions from property-owners on va-rious streets, asking that their side-walks be widened. Some of the peti-tioners wanted eight-foot walks; others wanted a ten-foot way, and others from nine to twelve feet, as their fancy seemed to dictate. These requests coming, as they did, on the heels of the defeat of the wider sidewaik ordinance, were perhaps enough to start the Councilman from the Second Ward to cogitating serlously, and he evidently wondered where the board would be "at" if it kept on granting these requests. It was evident that if it continued long enough, no two blocks in the city would have walks the same width. The board had already granted a number of these petitions, but when Trustee Whitney broke loose, the members of the Council did considerable discussing, and finally decided to refer the matter to a committee to investing and report to more the results of the series of the results of the results of the series of the council did considerable discussing, and finally decided to refer the matter to a committee to investing a part report to meeting of wanted a ten-foot way, and others from

SAN BERNARDINO, May 4 .- [Regular Correspondence.] The main point of interest at the meeting of the Board of upervisors at the second day's session for May was the proposed appointment of the three commissioners who are to constitute the Board of "Bug Exterminators" and the Supervisors' room was well filled as the hour drew nigh that was to decide the important question. For an hour the slow routine of bill passing was carried on, but at 11 o'clock the day, the horticultural question. Clerk Moulton read the call for the appointment of a commission, signed by the requisite twenty-five names of fruit-growers. Supervisor Cooley insisted that the petition was faulty in that it stated there were certain orchards infested, when it should name the orchards, quoting as his authority the opinion of the Supervisors of San Joaquin and Sacramento counties. Deputy District Attorney H. C. Rolfe, Jr., was called in and the question propounded to him. After reading the law and the petition he pronounced it "good law." This was not to be wondered at as the District Attorney himself drew up the petition. Then came the reading of the petitions of applicants for office as follows: R. A. Boyd, signed by 215 names; C. M. Barnes, 12s; J. B. Moores, 27; S. A. Pease, 45; C. G. Plerson, 32; R. T. Curtis, 41; B. W. Southern California-Fifty Societles Represented and More Are Coming-First Day's Proceedings

VENTURA, May 4 .- [Regular Corre spondence.] The thirteenth session of the Woman's Parliament opened at the Methodist Episcopai Church here to-day, and will be in session two days. The morning trains brought a large number of visitors and delegates from all parts of Southern California, among whom are some of the ablest and deep-est thinkers to be found in California. The church is artistically decorated in honor of the happy event, and music will be rendered by the best artists of the city. An audience representing the beauty and culture of the surrounding country is present to welcome the dis-tinguished members of the parliament and hear the papers read on the most interesting and far-reaching questions

Death Makes a Vacancy in the Board of Supervisors. SANTA BARBARA, May 4 .- [Regular Correspondence.] Flags are again at half mast and another political cloud is hovering about. The present year seems destined to go on record as the year of innumerable disturbances. There has not been a day without bringing to the people here the neces-sity of figuring upon an election or an appointment to some political position

Beaver, Pa., in response to a telegram announcing the serious illness of her mother.

The Board of Education voted the who shall hold until a special election can be held and a Supervisor for the district elected. It is not probable that the Governor will appoint any one, as there is no business before the Board of Supervisors that will materially suffer until an election can be called. The city's flag, the first to be holsted on the new flag mast at the Courthouse, is now in mourning over the death of the Supervisor from the Fourth District.

There is still a vacancy to be filled in trict.

There is still a vacancy to be filled in the City Council, created by the resignation of W. S. Day to accept a judgeship at the Governor's hands. There is a school trustee to be elected in the city, and a woman candidate will be in the field.

The ranch of I. G. Waterman in Montecito was the scene of a gorgeous celebration Monday night, which was witnessed by several hundred residents of the valley and this city. Although the affair was gotten up for the pleasure of the employes of the ranch and their friends, a large number from this city, including the band men and local musicians, were invited by Mr. Waterman to witness the celebration and take part in the festivities. The grounds were illuminated with lanterns, and a profusion of fireworks constituted one of the chief features of the evening. Refreshments were served in abundance to the large crowd present, and the festivities and merry-making were continued until a late hour.

Coroner Ruiz and a jury of six held an inquest today over the dead body of Antoine Bellera, a Frenchman, 26 years of age, who had been renting a small tract of land from L. G. Drey-fus near Goleta. The body was found-floating in the surf yesterday, and the evidence produced at the inquest to-day proved beyond a doubt that Bel-lera took his own life by drowning himself while temporarily insane.

Reciprocity with Hawaii is not approved of by the Los Angeles Board of Trade. At a special meeting held last evening, resolutions were adopted which set forth that the treaty now in force between the Hawaiian Islands and the United States provides for the free entry into the United States of raw sugar, to the great detriment of the beetsugar industry, which, by proper protection, will supply the home market within the next few years, thus retaining millions of dollars in the United States; and further, that all goods bought by Hawaiian firms are obtained in the cheapest markets of the world, without regard to the present reciproclity treaty with this country. Therefore it was resolved, that our representatives at Washington be earnestly requested to lay the matter before the present Congress, with a view to have between the Hawaiian Islands and the present Congress, with a view to hav-ing the treaty abrogated.

How You Dread The Crossings!

THE CONTACT WITH ANY ROUGH OBstruction—the slightest joit—is injurious to the rider of a wheel. It disturbs the internal organs, jars the nerve centers of the spine, strains the kidneys and vital organs and induces general weakness. All old riders speak of this weakness, which can and should be guarded against. Give strength to the nerves and muscles of the back and help them to stand the strain. Make them elastic and vigorous. An event them cally wind on the circlety intuser you for the severest strain.

DR. RANDEN'S ELECTRIC BELT is perticularly beneficial to wheel-riders. It numbers thousands of them among its cures. Giving its force direct to the nervo-muscular center, it carries life and activity to every muscle which is affected by riding. It will cure a majority of the complaints resulting from indiscretion on the wheel.

East Side Committee Recommends

A well-attended and enthusiastic meeting of the East Side Improvement Association was held last night on the east side to hear the report of its Boulevard Committee. This committee was large and representative one, and has been engaged for several weeks in in-vestigating plans and routes for a new avenue from the Plaza direct to the East Side and on to the city limits. The report, which was unanimously adopted,

We have carefully investigated the "We have carefully investigated the different proposed routes for the new avenue from the Plaza to East Los Angeles, and recommend the opening of such an avenue one hundred feet in width approximately along the following route, to-wit:

Labor Exchange.

The regular monthly meeting of the Los Angeles Labor Exchange was held in the new hall on Third street, near San Pedro street, last night. In the absence of the president, Vice-President Mrs. M. E. Bensen presided. Mrs. A. J. Corker was elected to fill the office of accountant made vacant at absence of the president, Vice-President Mrs. M. E. Bensen presided. Mrs. A. J. Corker was elected to fill the office of accountant made vacant at the last meeting, and G. J. Eustice, W. C. Bowman and W. N. Slocum were voted directors.

It is claimed that the exhange is now on a firmer basis than at any previous time. A shoe factory has been started, and the members entertain strong hope of stocking the hall with products from the broom and soap factories, and the fruit cannery recently started at Bakersfield. The hall will then become a public market, and it is the purpose of the 200 members of the association in this city to sell or trade these articles for other necessaries. No legal tender will be used in these transactions, but instead, if the transaction fails to be an even trade, a certificate of deposit will be given, which will be honored at any future date, when presented, in payment of commodities.

MAIN-STREET LINE WILL BE FIN-

The Last Mile of Horse-car Line to be Electrised Immediately-Com ing of the Conductors-Fifteen Barrels an Hour at Oil Center.

By the end of May, the Main-street car line will be entirely changed to an electric system. At present, the Main-street and Agricultural Park Railway Company's new electric cars are running as far as the corner of Grand avenue and Jefferson street. From that point, passengers are carried to the end of the line, at the entrance to Agricultural Park, by the lumsy little horse cars. The completion of the road has been delayed by the difficulty of procuring iron for the track. The old rails were entirely too light for the new, heavy cars. Now a supply of iron rails has been received from San Francisco, and the work of laying them has begun. The poles are all up and the overhead wires strung, so all that remains to be done is the actual laying of the track, and that will, be completed, perhaps, within fifteen days. With the completion of the mile of track still to be built, the last horse-car line in the city, except the old Mateo-street line, which runs parallel with the Santa Fé tracks, beginning near the Santa Fé Depot, will have been changed from mule-power to electricity.

CONDUCTORS COMING. The local committee in charge of the arrangements for the reception of the arrangements for the reception of the National Conductors' Association, which will hold its annual convention in Los Angeles next week, is head over heels in work. The headquarters in the Nadeau Hotel is a busy place. The first large delegation of conductors will arrive in the city on Sunday, May 9, in a special train over the Southern Pacific from Atlanta. They will reach Los Angeles at 10 a.m. On Monday a special train of ten sleepers will arrive from St. Louis, coming over the Southern Pacific by way of Yuma. On Tuesday, 'May 11, at 10:30, a special train will arrive from Chicago over the Santa Fé. On Thursday, the 13th, an excursion will arrive from Philadelphia, coming by way of the Pennsylvania Limited and the Central Pacific; through Sacramento. On Friday there will be an excursion from New York over the Southern Pacific. Besides the visitors who come on these special trains, every regular train into Los Anover the Southern Pacific. Besides the visitors who come on these special trains, every regular train into Los Angeles will bring great numbers of delegates to the convention. The Bureau of Information in the Nadeau will have complete information as to the lodginghouse and hotel accommodations throughout the city, and it is anticipated that there will be no trouble in finding quarters for all the guests. The conductors who came on one route will conductors who came on one route will almost all go back on another, so as to get a comprehensive view of the whole country.

RAILROAD NOTES. The steamer Santa Rosa sailed from Redondo and Port Los Angeles for San Francisco yesterday, with an exceptionally large number of passengers. Most of them were tourists who have been in Los Angeles for some time, and who were on their way East by way of San Francisco. It will not be until June that the summer exodus of Los Angeles people will begin. An enterprising Anaheim man has gone into the business of hauling goods from Los Angeles to Anaheim by team. As he calls at the place of business of the shipper, and delivers to the door of the man who receives the goods, there are manifest conveniences in this way of sending things, and he is driving a flourishing trade.

Another Car Accident.

Ex-Police Officer Bosqui was knocked down by an electric car at Main and Thirteenth streets yesterday and badly cut about the head and right shoul-der. He was bandaged up at the Reder. He was bandaged up at the Re-ceiving Hospital and sent to his home at No. 337 Oliver street.

At the time of the accident Bosqui was laying a chalk line along the track and did not hear the warning bell. His injuries will disenable him from work for some time.

Strange Hallneination of a Cra Man Arrested Late Last Night. A crazy man named John Bush was arrested by Officer Sparks on Upper Main street shortly before midnight and taken to the County Jail for safe keeping until the commissioners of insan-

Bush imagined himself covered with mice, and while laboring under this hallucination he rushed into a saloon pposite the Hoffman Hotel and created opposite the Hoffman Hotel and created a small riot by proceeding to strip off-his clothing. He applied himself so zealously to this task that before he could be stopped, he stood stark naked in the middle of the saloon tearing his esh with his nails and screaming im

The unfortunate man was finally overpowered and turned over to the police. It is believed that recent dissipations are responsible for his condition.
